ALLIES MUST FEED GERMANY, LANSING SAYS

Providing Supplies Will Not Be Act of Pity But For Self-Advantage.

MARKETS A NECESSITY

If These Be Denied, American Secretary of State Declares at Press Banquet, Nations Will Run to Anarchy; General Strike in Siberia.

By Associated Press.
PARIS, March 12.—"We have reached a crisis in the affairs of the world," said Secretary of State Robert Lansing at a banquet given tonight by the Inter-Allied Press club in honor of the American peace commissioners.
Mr. Lansing was emphatic in his statement that the Allies must feed Germany and give the Germans opportunity to sell their products in the foreign markets if the danger of Bolshevism was to be avoided. He painted a vivid picture of conditions in the war zone of France and pointed out that it was not through pity for Germany but to the Allies' own advantage to see that anarchy was prevented in the former German empire.

FOOD SUPPLY IN NORTH RUSSIA EXHAUSTED

ARCHANGEL, Tuesday, March 11.—The food situation in northern Russia is causing some concern. In the district between Archangel and Olenok, where a heavy frost late last summer killed even the Arctic summer berries, the people have already eaten the rationed bread for next June.

FREE TRADE FAVORED BY LEAGUE CONFERENCE

RUSSIAN SITUATION BECOMES DESPERATE

PARIS, March 12.—Former Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovich, who arrived in Paris recently from the Crimea, told the Associated Press today that unless armed Allied intervention in Russia began at once the situation in Russia would become so hopelessly desperate that it would take years, perhaps decades, to restore a semblance of order and bring about peace in eastern Europe. The former grand duke, who is a brother-in-law of the former emperor, continued:
"I do not ask the Allies to fight for us. We merely ask them to keep order in the territory wrested from Bolshevism by the government already fighting the soviets."

OPENING OF RHINE TO ALL RECOMMENDED

PARIS, March 12.—Recommendation that the navigation of the Rhine be opened to all nations without discrimination was made in a report to the peace conference today by the commission on the international regime of waterways, railways and ports.

The status of the Kiel canal has been settled by the commission on the basis of the freedom of use for all nations for merchant vessels or warships in time of peace. The canal would continue under German ownership and operation.

The question of the fortification of the canal is left by the commission to the decision of military and naval experts.

STATE WILL FIGHT WEST VIRGINIA'S EMBARGO ON GAS

Senator Crow Introduces Resolution at Harrisburg For Court Proceedings.

MILLIONS ARE IMPERILED

Not Only Would Industry in Western Pennsylvania Be Seriously Affected, But Domestic Consumers Would Suffer Great Losses, Resolution States.

HARRISBURG, March 12.—Pennsylvania will fight to upset the West Virginia law of February 17 prohibiting the transmission of natural gas from that state until after the demands of the citizens of Pennsylvania are satisfied. The necessary steps were taken yesterday by the introduction into the Senate of a joint resolution by Senator W. E. Crow directing the attorney general to begin proceedings to protect the rights of Pennsylvania and her citizens. The legislation was reported from committee and read a first time.

The preamble of the resolution reads:
"There are millions of domestic and industrial consumers of natural gas, citizens of this commonwealth, who have expended enormous sums of money to equip their houses and plants, respectively, with appliances adapted for burning this fuel, and to restrict and diminish the supply to any considerable extent would affect the domestic consumers in their health, their comfort, their convenience and their welfare; would subject them to enormous property losses in rendering useless their present appliances and necessitating the substitution of others in many cases requiring the reconstruction of dwellings; while the industrial consumers, if thus restricted and the supply of gas greatly diminished, would not only suffer great loss, but be placed at a disadvantage in competition with manufacturers in other states where by law an adequate supply was provided."

"Citizens of this commonwealth have invested hundreds of millions of dollars in the exploration for and the development of natural gas wells and fields of West Virginia, and in the installation of transportation systems for the transmission of the gas thus found from West Virginia into Pennsylvania in order to obtain a supply, and in the end have made contracts entered into obligations with cities and boroughs, as well as with industrial plants and others.
"The citizens of the cities and boroughs and the owners of industrial plants and others are to a large extent dependent upon, and have relied for their supply upon the gas transported from West Virginia into Pennsylvania, the natural gas available from other sections being wholly inadequate, a large proportion of the gas now consumed in Pennsylvania coming from West Virginia.
"In order to restrain and restrict the transmission of this gas from West Virginia into Pennsylvania, and

FAYETTE COUNTY USES MUCH WEST VIRGINIA GAS

Outcome of Fight Started by Senator Crow & of Vital Interest to This Community.

The controversy between West Virginia and other states which are consumers of gas from the West Virginia fields very vitally affects Fayette county gas consumers inasmuch as the entire supply of gas for domestic consumers of the Fayette County Gas company, in Westmoreland, Greene and Fayette counties, comes from West Virginia through the Hope Natural Gas company. Under the contract with the Hope company, it is compelled to provide sufficient fuel to meet the domestic demands made upon the Fayette County Gas company and this company is, in turn, bound to purchase all of its gas for its domestic consumers from the Hope company.
At the present time the Fayette County Gas company is able to produce only approximately 20 per cent of the demands upon it. Recently a large number of new leases have been taken and the company now has under lease approximately 7,000 acres of land in Fayette and Westmoreland counties. The immediate development of these leases will represent a tremendous outlay of capital out plans, as yet in tentative form, have been discussed for such development so as to meet a situation which will result if the West Virginia law is upheld by the Supreme court.

Income Tax Force in Pittsburgh Unable to Handle Personal Returns.

C. G. Lewellyn, collector of internal revenue for the 33rd district of Pennsylvania, said today:
"There is great congestion in the office at Pittsburgh due to the vast number of taxpayers endeavoring to receive personal attention and assistance in the preparation of their income tax returns, and in endeavoring to have returns sworn to and filed by the taxpayer, personally, in this office.
"The congestion at the present time is so great that it is impossible to give the taxpayers the assistance and attention demanded. The taxpayers are, therefore, asked to refrain from calling at the revenue office at Pittsburgh, and endeavor to prepare their own returns, whether tentative or complete, in the best manner they know how, and deposit same in the postoffice of their town, together with remittance for the first quarterly payment of tax, addressed to C. For Three Hours Real Estate Dealer, Intoxicated, Holds Half Hundred Policemen at Bay.

CHICAGO, March 12.—Two policemen and a civilian are in hospitals today with bullet wounds inflicted by a man barricaded in his own house while the latter is dead with part of his head blown off, having turned his rifle against himself.
For three hours early today George Ondeck, real estate dealer, and expert marksman, held more than half a hundred policemen at bay, exchanging shot for shot and driving the besiegers to the cover of adjacent buildings. When Ondeck was reduced to his last cartridge he shot himself.
Half an hour after the firing ceased the police entered the house and found Ondeck dead in a front room. In a rear room were Mrs. Ondeck and her six children lying on the floor to escape the bullets that crashed through the frame cottage wall. Ondeck is said to have been drinking, and the police were hunting him with a warrant charging cruelty, sworn out by his wife.

BOY SCOUTS OFFER SERVICES FOR THE SOLDIERS' FETE

Hundred in City and Others From County at Disposal of Committee.

PLANS ARE PROGRESSING

Reports at Meeting at City Hall Indicate There Will Be Nothing Lacking in the Line of Effort; Committee of Negroes Named to Boost Cause.

That the Boy Scouts of Connellsville are ready to do their bit toward making the soldiers' home-coming reception a success is indicated in a communication from Scout Commissioner R. C. Will, read at the meeting of the central committee last evening at city hall, offering the services of 100 scouts in Connellsville for whatever may be required of them; including 25 mounted boys for messenger service, and giving assurance that approximately 200 from the county will participate.
The letter from Commissioner Will to Chairman J. E. Angle, reads:
"I wish to extend to you greetings from the Boy Scouts of America in Connellsville in the undertaking of you and your committee in arranging for the celebration for the home-coming soldiers and other days to be celebrated.
"We wish to offer our assistance in any way we can be of service to your committee or the general public. We can put at your disposal 100 uniformed scouts from our city, or on an estimate, 200 from the county.
"The scouts are under efficient leadership and trained in first aid, signaling, traffic handling and panic prevention, with 25 or more bicycle scouts for messenger service.
"These scouts and officers are at your service as you may need them. We feel it our duty to share in the program if we can be of service."
The meeting was devoted to reports of committees, principally. Chairman J. E. Angle presided and there was a goodly representation.
Speaking for the traveling salesmen who are being organized to disseminate information, Harry Hopkins said all were ready to do the bidding of the committee. There are, he said, others of the committee present said, about 20 salesmen traveling out of Connellsville by automobile. Assurance was given that this number of men can do a lot in the way of advertising the celebration. The suggestion was offered that they get busy at once by having cards placed on their machines advertising the events. This will probably be arranged through the advertising committee.
The names of F. L. Reppert, W. T. Muir, George W. Holcomb, A. R. Boyer, W. S. Schuman and S. M. Showman were added to the committee. Others will be.
A committee of negroes to secure the cooperation of the colored people was named as follows: Rev. J. A. Allen, Rev. A. J. Payne, Rev. R. D. Epps, Rev. M. F. Simms, G. W. Sherman, W. P. Johnson, J. N. Struthers, Joshua Thompson, T. R. Stone, Walter Gault, R. D. Flint, M. Bridges, D. Womack and J. W. Strange.
The report of the music committee indicated that $2,000 will not cover the expense of that feature. It is the intention to make the Connellsville Military band the leading musical organization for the event, but there is a desire to get a number of others. There is talk of having Nirella's organization here. The Moose will be ready to report at the next meeting. J. S. Darr said, as to the proposed coming of the Mooseheart band. The number of bands is yet undetermined.
Progress was reported by Mr. Darr for the Moose, J. C. Timpman for the Elks and P. J. O'Connor for the machinists.

The Tolo, after debarking Canadian troops here, sailed for New York with the American bound contingent on March 10 but was ordered back to this port to coal for the return trip to England because of the outbreak of the harbor strike in New York. Captain Jackson told the authorities that he had no guns aboard and that his ship was at the mercy of the soldiers.

MAY RECORD DISCHARGES

H. C. Hays Announces Free Service for Returned Soldiers.

Recorder H. C. Hays has announced that arrangements are being made to place on the county records in the courthouse at Uniontown the discharge papers of every soldier and sailor in Fayette county. In this manner the returning service men will be given an opportunity to have their part in the world war made a matter of permanent record.

Recorder Hays announces that the service will be entirely free of charge. The advantage in having the discharge papers recorded is that should these papers be mislaid or destroyed, a certified copy could be secured to replace the original. Mr. Hays has ordered a special military discharge docket for the purpose and until its arrival will have the discharges recorded in one of the usual record books. The government has suggested that soldiers sending in their discharge papers to claim the $50 bonus, first have their papers recorded so that a certified copy could be secured if the originals should be lost.

INTRODUCING THE NEW WIDE GIRL

There seem to be quite a number of broad shoulders in the new frocks. Sashes that begin at the waistline and fall as low as the hips. This plain little gabardine owes its chic not only to its style but to the oddity of its bit of ordandy that do for collar and cuffs.

At the Theatres

THE SOISSON.

THE SWISS BELL RINGERS—Famous for their high class musical entertainments, are appearing today, rendering a most unusual musical program. The company uses the xylophone, marimbaphone, Hungarian dulcimer, organ chimes, Swiss handbells, musical aluminum tubes and a great many other novelty instruments, besides the violin, cello, harp, mandolin, banjo and saxophones. Each member of the company is an artist in their line of work. The program offers something of interest to all classes, ranging from the popular songs of the day, through the familiar old folk songs and southern melodies, to classical composition and grand opera. There is nothing on the extended list of 17 numbers which will fail to interest the audience. Miss Josephine George is a violinist of rare ability and her work on the xylophone, saxophone and other instruments prove her to be both talented and versatile. The entertainment is one that lovers of music cannot afford to miss.

POOR SEASON FOR MAPLE SUGAR, OWNERS OF GROVES SAY; PRICES HIGHER THAN IN MANY A YEAR

Maple sugar is quoted in Connelville at 40 cents a pound, which is on a par with or above almost everything else one could mention in the line of foodstuffs in regard to price. Much of the sugar sold here comes from Somerset county.

The maple sugar season in Somerset county has been rather tardy in developing the present season and the production thus far has been small compared with many previous seasons. It is claimed. Weather conditions have been unfavorable for the production of sap and with only about three weeks of the ordinary sugar season remaining farmers with maple groves are anxiously awaiting more favorable weather.

It is greatly to be regretted, but nevertheless true, that the production of maple sugar is one of the declining industries of Somerset county. Slowly yet surely the sugar groves of today are passing away. They are but a diminutive remnant of the mighty forests of oak, pine, hemlock, locust, hickory, beech, sugar and other timber that covered Somerset county when the first settlers climbed the rocky eastern slopes of the Allegheny mountains.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kline's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents of Dr. Kline & Co., Birmingham, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Connelville Daily Courier.—Adv.

WEAKNESS REMAINS LONG AFTER Influenza

Reports Show That Strength, Energy and Ambition Return Very Slowly to Grippe Patients.

After an attack of influenza, doctors advise that nature be assisted in its building-up process by the use of a good tonic—one that will not only put strength and endurance into the body, but will also help to build up and strengthen the run-down cells of the brain.

One of the most highly recommended remedies to put energy into both body and brain is Bio-ferrin—your physician knows the formula—it is printed below.

There's iron in Bio-ferrin—the kind of iron that makes red blood corpuscles and creates vigor. There is lecithin also; probably the best brain invigorator known to science. Then there is good old reliable gentian, that brings back your lagging appetite.

There are other ingredients that help to promote good health, as you can see by reading this formula, not forgetting kola, that great agent that puts the power of endurance into weak people.

Taken altogether Bio-ferrin is a splendid active tonic that will greatly help any weak, run-down person to regain normal strength, energy, ambition and endurance.

Bio-ferrin is sold by all reliable druggists and is inexpensive. For weakness after influenza patients are advised to take two tablets after each meal and one at bed time—seven a day, until health, strength and vigor are fully restored.

It will not fail to help you and if for any reason you are dissatisfied with results your druggist is authorized to return your money upon request—without any red tape of any kind.

Note to physicians: There is no secret about the formula of Bio-ferrin, it is printed on every package. Here it is: Lecithin; Calcium Glycero-phosphate; Iron Phosphate; Manganese Phosphate; Potassium Phosphate; Powdered Gentian; Phenolphthalein; Oleo-sin Capsicum; Kola.

to discriminate against the citizens of Pennsylvania and in favor of the citizens of West Virginia. West Virginia, February 17, 1913, did enact a law, the effect whereof is that the gas produced in the state should first be applied to the full satisfaction of all the domestic, industrial and other demands of the citizens of that state, before any thereof could be transmitted into Pennsylvania; thus, disregarding the rights of citizens of Pennsylvania, and the obligations of their contracts.

"By cumulative fines and penalties, civil and criminal, the law of West Virginia is designed to deter parties engaged in the production and transmission of natural gas from West Virginia into Pennsylvania from instituting legal proceedings to have tested and adjudicated the rights of said state so to restrict and prevent the transmission of gas from West Virginia until after all demands of its citizens have been first adequately supplied."

"The citizens of this state who will suffer in their health, comfort, convenience, welfare and property by the enforcement of this law, are without remedy or redress except through action by this commonwealth."

"The enforcement of the law of West Virginia would be in conflict with the constitution of the United States, which prohibits the placing of burdens and restraints upon interstate commerce, and prevents laws impairing the obligation of contracts. The framers of the constitution of the United States sought to prevent any state from husbanding and applying its natural resources solely for the benefit of its own citizens, to the detriment and loss of the citizens of other states, well knowing if this policy were pursued it would result in reprisals and all of the evils attendant thereon, and vested in the federal courts the power to prevent any state from entering upon any such course of conduct."

WOLVES of the SEA

62 RANDALL PARRISH

CHAPTER III.

Dorothy Fairfax.

We were not far from two hundred miles west of the Cape. I had been closely confined to my bunk for two days with illness, but now, somewhat stronger, had been ordered to deck by the surgeon. The last batch of prisoners, after their short hour of recreation, had been returned to the quarters below, but I was permitted to remain alone undisturbed.

I was still standing there absorbed when a voice, soft-spoken and feminine, broke the silence.

"May I speak with you?"

I turned instantly, not thoroughly surprised as my gaze fell into the upturned face of the questioner. She stood directly beside me, her head uncovered. Instantly my cap was off, and I was bowing courteously.

"Most certainly," with a quick side glance toward the guard, "but I am a prisoner."

"Of course I know that," in smiling confidence. "Only you see I am rather a privileged character on board. Perhaps you may be punished if you talk with me—is that what you mean?"

"I am more than willing to assume the risk. I have made few friends forward, and am even bold enough to say that I have longed for a word with you ever since I first saw you aboard."

"Why especially with me?"

"Rather a long question to answer at the very beginning," I smiled back at her. "Yet not so difficult as the one I shall ask you. I am only one of fifty prisoners, scarcely cleaner or more reputable looking than any of my mates. Yet surely you have not sought speech with these others? Then why especially with me?"

Even in the growing dusk I could mark a red flush mount into the clear cheeks at this insistent question, and for an instant her eyes wavered. But she possessed the courage of pride, and her hesitancy was short.

"You imagine I cannot answer. Oh, but I can; I know who you are; my uncle pointed you out to me. I am traveling home with him to Maryland. I am Dorothy Fairfax. He was present at your trial before Lord Jeffries. You are Geoffrey Carlyle, in command of the ship that brought Monmouth to England. I heard it all."

"All? What else, pray?"

Her eyes opened widely in sudden surprise and she clasped and unclasped her hands nervously.

"Do you really not know? Have you never been told what happened?"

"Only that I was roughly forbidden to speak, called every bad name the learned judge could think of, and then sentenced to twenty years penal servitude beyond seas," I answered soberly.

"Following that I was dragged from the dock, and hung into a cell. Was there anything else?"

"Why you should have known. Lord Jeffries sentenced you to death; the decree was signed, to be executed immediately. Then influence was brought to bear—some nobleman in Northumberland made direct appeal to the king. That was what angered Jeffries so."

"An appeal? For me? Good God! not Buccleugh—was it he, the duke?"

"Yes; it was whispered about that the king was in his debt—some word of honor, and dare not refuse. The word of mercy came just in time, ordering Jeffries to commute your sentence. At first he swore he'd hang you, king or no king, but his nerve failed. My uncle said he roared like a bull. This Buccleugh; is he not your friend?"

"I hesitated for an instant of indecision, looking into her face, but the truth would not be denied."

"Scarcely that," I said soberly. "Nor can I solve entirely his purpose. He is my brother, and I am the next in line. We are not over on speaking terms; yet he is childish, and may feel some measure of dislike to have the family end in a hangman's knot. I can think of no other reason for his interference. I knew nothing of Buccleugh."

"I am glad it became my privilege to tell you. Besides, Captain Carlyle," I thought, "it may also help you to understand my interest. If you are of the Carlyles of Buccleugh, how he should it that you went to sea?"

"Largely necessity, and to come exact no doubt sheer love of adventure. I was a younger son, with very little income. There were then two lives between me and the estate, and the old duke, my father, treated me like a servant. I always loved the sea, and at fourteen—to get out of his sight, I think largely—went aboard to the navy, but lost my grade in the service by a more boyish prank. His influence then would have saved me, but he refused to even read my letter of explanation. I dared not return home in such disgrace, and consequently drifted into the merchant service. It is a story quickly told."

"Yet not so quickly lived."

"So it meant many hard years, on all the oceans of the world. This is the first message reaching me from the old home."

"I have seen that home," she said quietly, "and shall never forget the impression it made on me. A beautiful place. I was there on a coaching party, the first summer I was in England. I was a mere girl then, and everything seemed wonderful. I have been away from Maryland now for three years. Nothing else would satisfy father. Maryland is only a colony, you know."

"Your home is at Saint Mary's?"

"Lower down the Potomac. Have you ever been there?"

"Twice, once as mate, and the last time as master of a ship. My latest voyage in these waters was made nearly two years ago."

"It is not so strange then, is it, that I should have felt interested in you?" she asked suddenly, as though justifying herself. "When Uncle Roger first told me who you were, and then explained what had occurred at your trial, naturally you became to me something entirely different from the others. Were you actually with Monmouth?"

"In sympathy, yes; but I had no hand in the actual fighting. I was not even ashore until it was all over with. Still I shall pay my share of the bill."

"And you know what that means, do you not? What will happen when we reach Virginia?"

"Perfectly, I have no illusions. I have seen just such ships as this come in. We are to be advertised, and sold to the highest bidder. A week from now I shall probably be out in the tobacco fields, under the whip of an overseer, who will call me Jeff. All I can hope for is a kind-hearted master, and an early opportunity to escape."

"Oh, no!" and in her eagerness her hands actually clasped mine. "It is not going to be quite so bad as that. That is what I wanted to tell you. That is what gave me boldness to come across here to you tonight. It has all been arranged. You are not going to be sold on the block with those others. Uncle Roger has already contracted with the captain for your services. You are going north with us to Maryland."

"I have seen that home," she said quietly, "and shall never forget the impression it made on me. A beautiful place. I was there on a coaching party, the first summer I was in England. never connect the fact before directly with my own case. God what a relief; I stood up straight once more in the stature of a man. I hardly know what wild words I might have spoken and the opportunity was mine; but at that instant the figure of a man crossed the deck toward us, emerging from the open cabin door. Against the gleam of yellow light I recognized the trim form advancing, and as instantly stepped back into shadow. My quick movement caused her to turn and face him.

"What?" he exclaimed, and evidently surprised at his discovery. "It is indeed Mistress Dorothy—out here alone? 'Twas my thought you were safely in your cabin long since. But—prithes—I mistake; you are not alone."

"I was preparing to go in," she answered, ignoring his latter words. "The night already looks stormy."

"But your friend?"

"The tone in which he spoke was insistent, almost insolent in its demand, and she hesitated no longer in meeting the challenge."

"Your pardon, I am sure—Lieutenant Sanchez, this gentleman is Captain Geoffrey Carlyle."

He stood there stiff and straight against the background of light, one hand in affected carelessness caressing the end of a waxed mustache, his face was in shadow, yet I was quite aware of the flash of his eyes.

"Ah, indeed—some passenger I have not chance to observe before?"

"A prisoner," he returned distinctly. "You may perhaps remember my uncle pointed him out to us when we first came aboard."

"And you have been out here alone, talking with the fellow?"

"Certainly—why not?"

"Why the man is a felon, convicted of crime, sentenced to deportation."

"It is not necessary that we discuss this, sir," she interposed, rather proudly, "as my personal conduct is not a matter for your criticism. I shall retire now. No, thank you, you need not come."

He stopped still, staring blankly after her as she vanished; then wheeled about to vent his anger on me.

"I was preparing to go in," she answered, ignoring his latter words. "The night already looks stormy."

"But your friend?"

"The tone in which he spoke was insistent, almost insolent in its demand, and she hesitated no longer in meeting the challenge."

"Your pardon, I am sure—Lieutenant Sanchez, this gentleman is Captain Geoffrey Carlyle."

"Carlyle, boy!" he exclaimed eagerly. "A familiar sound that came in my ears. One of the brood out of Buccleugh?"

TO BRING WAGES AND PRICES DOWN TO NORMAL LEVEL

Is the Job of New Industrial Board of Department of Commerce.

CUT IN COST OF LIVING

Before Wages Are Reduced; Then the Law of Supply and Demand Must be Made to Function but It Cannot Operate Before Buying Power Begins.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Completion of the personnel of the industrial board of the department of commerce, together with the plans of the board for hastening the return of prices and wages to a normal level, has been announced through the Council of National Defense.

Associated with George N. Peck of Chicago, Ill., a former member of the war industries board, as chairman of the new organization, are Samuel P. Bush of Columbus, O.; Anthony Caminetti, commissioner of immigration; Thomas K. Glenn of Atlanta, Ga.; George R. James of Memphis, Tenn.; T. C. Powell of Cincinnati, and William M. Ritter of West Virginia.

The chief purpose of the new board, it was announced, is to bring about the operation of the law of supply and demand, interfered with by the process of war. To this end conferences will be held with representatives of the chief industries "to decide on prices to be offered to the nation as the governmentally approved judgment on a price scale low enough to encourage buying and the resumption of normal activities."

"As soon as stable and wholesome scale of prices is achieved," said the announcement, "the cost of living will have as far been reduced as to create automatically reductions in the prices of labor without interfering with living standards and means of the treatment and conditions of labor, and thus the last, including element will have been withdrawn from prices."

"It is believed that industry will agree that the cost of living must be substantially reduced before labor should be asked to accept lower wages, and that industry should stand the first shock of readjustment."

"Basic commodities such as steel, building materials, textiles, and food will be considered first and brought to a stable basis. The government policy as expressed by the bill to authorize purchase by the government of wheat at the guaranteed price and resale of it at the world price, is to assist in bringing prices of basic commodities to normal by bringing down the cost of living. It is hoped that these steps alone will automatically operate to reduce the price of fabricated articles. If they do not do so in any particular case, the industry affected will be invited into conference."

"The assurance to the country of a market stabilized at the lowest reasonably expected level will loosen such a flood of buying for the recreation of stocks, the making up of arrears in the building program, the feeding of needs long starved by economy and the invasion of world markets as may be anticipated in this country. From the stable level thus reached by cooperation, we may expect a healthy and normal condition created by the complete and unhampered operation of the law of supply and demand."

In reply to the objection that a general reduction in selling prices now will force industry and commerce to take a loss on existing purchases at war prices, the board's announcement said the losses under the proposed plan would be less than if industry were required to await a natural readjustment with the consequent long period of stagnation.

"The normal operation of the law of supply and demand," said the statement, "cannot cure what it did not cause; because, it cannot operate until buying begins, and second, because buying cannot begin until we have a normal, stable and healthy market."

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glasses of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert, vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of nerve wrecks, "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and intestines of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation.—Adv.
